Research Analysis

HB1316 requires school districts to provide training to emergency certified teachers prior to them working in the classroom. HB1316 also requires the school district to provide a mentor to support the emergency certified teacher throughout the year. The measure creates an exception for educators who already hold a standard teaching certificate, but are receiving an emergency certification as well.

The measure permits school districts to work with each other and institutions of higher education to provide the training and sets minimum requirements for the training.
