Bill Analysis

SB 1592 expands the provisions of the Oklahoma Energy Independence Act to apply to industrial, educational, agricultural, and nonprofit properties. Counties are authorized by the measure to collect fees for costs incurred in the administration of the PACE program in an amount to be fixed by the applicable board of county commissioners and deposited with the county treasurer. Counties may also retain third-party professional services to administer the PACE program. The measure provides for any costs incurred by the local government to enforce a PACE lien shall be borne by the lender.
